About the Program

The purpose of this conference is to provide a forum for thoughtful deliberation about the implementation of medical aid in dying (MAiD) legislation based on lessons learned in Oregon and, more recently, Colorado. The conference will offer suggestions about how health care professionals can achieve the best possible care for seriously ill patients and their families if medical aid in dying is legalized in Minnesota. The goal of this conference is to provide practical information and encourage rational conversations about care options at the end-of-life.

David Grube, MD, is Board Certified in Family Medicine and retired after practicing for 35 years. He continues to teach medical students. He was a leader in the Oregon Academy of Family Physicians (OAFP) and OAFP Foundation. He was honored (2009) as Oregon Medical Association Doctor Citizen of the Year. He was appointed to the Oregon Board of Medical Examiners (now Oregon Medical Board) in 2001, and served seven years, including two years as president. He was honored as Family Physician of the Year in 1986 by the OAFP. In 2014, Dr. Grube joined Compassion & Choices as one of its two Oregon and National medical directors.

Kim Mooney, BA, CT, has 24 years experience in the field of dying, death, and grief. She has worked with hospices and as an independent consultant for faith communities, corporations, health care and mental health agencies. She is a Certified Thanatologist (CT), a keynote speaker, published author, and former Board member of the International Association for Death Education and Counseling, and the Colorado Health Care Ethics Forum. She was an active member of the statewide Advance Care Planning Workgroup for the Colorado Center for Hospice & Palliative Care, 2005–2010.

Thaddeus Mason Pope, JD, PhD, is the Director of the Health Law Institute, Mitchell Hamline School of Law, St. Paul, MN. Before joining Mitchell Hamline in 2012, Professor Pope taught at the Widener University School of Law (2007-2011), and at the University of Memphis (2005-2007). Before joining academia, Pope clerked for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit and practiced for seven years as a corporate litigator with Arnold & Porter LLP in Los Angeles and Washington, DC. He graduated from Georgetown University, where he received both his JD and a PhD in philosophy and bioethics.

Objectives

Participants will be able to:

- ◆ Describe the definition and concept of medical aid in dying (including appropriate assessment of the patient and her/his request), and review clinical practice guidelines.
- ◆ List and describe barriers to medical aid in dying, including patient, provider, and institutional components.
- ◆ Describe medical aid in dying as it relates to palliative care and hospice care and unexpected consequences noted in authorized states.
- ◆ Describe how personal and cultural biases and beliefs influence perception of patient-directed death.
- ◆ Differentiate between desire for MAiD and other types of requests for assistance, and engage in exploratory discussions to identify and discern appropriate responses.
- ◆ Describe psychosocial concerns of patients, caregivers, and supporting professionals.
- ◆ Define and describe eight required legal safeguards for medical aid in dying.
- ◆ Assess how healthcare clinicians and facilities have implemented legal safeguards for medical aid in dying including “opt-in/opt-out” provisions.
- ◆ Describe the status of MAiD legislation in Minnesota and the ethical and legal end-of-life care options which are currently within the scope of reasonable medical practice.
